

U-Shaped Partial Reclaim System

The U-shaped floor design is utilized in an in-out room configuration where heavy work pieces and material handling devices can drive into the room and position the work piece on the steel covered concrete floor located between two longitudinal reclaim screws. The key difference between the U shaped reclaim floor and the H shaped reclaim floor is the position of the cross screw along the back wall of the blast room.

